

Dear <Name>,

I have some exciting news.... I am completing my Kilometres of Compassion at <add public event>.

I've joined Team ASRC to empower refugees and people seeking asylum to live sustainably, independently and equally in Australia.

This is a huge challenge for me. But not as big a challenge as what refugees and people seeking asylum face here in Australia. So I am proud to move with the Asylum Seeker Resource Centre.

The ASRC is a place of refuge and hope that provides food, housing, healthcare, education, employment and legal services - restoring dignity and hope for 7,000 people seeking safety each year.

Part of my challenge is to raise funds for this important work. Can you help me reach my goal and help support the ASRC too? I would really appreciate any donation you can give and you can sponsor me right now at my online fundraising page <Insert fundraising page URL>.

$50 can help pay for prepaid phone credit to keep people connected to the loved ones

$75 can help provide a week of groceries, including a greater variety of fresh fruit and vegetables

$195 can help pay for an appointment with a psychiatrist to help overcome the challenges they are facing

Even better – your donation is tax deductible and you'll get a receipt straight away.

In advance, thanks for the support – it means a lot
